How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels. ☞ ☜

PIANOS.

GAINED FIRST PREMIUM FOR GREATEST merit at the New Orleans Cotton Centennial and WORLD'S Exposition for refined and wonderful power of tone, elegance of design, and superb finish. Only piano endorsed by United States commissioners, from each of the States. Cases finest carved, rosewood finish finest imported double repeating action—three strings throughout of best patent steel wire—keys best ivory. Our new patent steel tuning device, instead of wood, is the greatest invention ever made in pianos. It consists of stationary STEEL tuning pins that are set in a mold and pattern STEEL is run round the pins keeping them solidly in place. A thimble or shell pin is made to exactly fit the stationary pin revolving therein: thus the strings wind round the pins. After the strings are properly stretched the piano can never get out of tune, the rest plank being of STEEL not affected by extremes of climate. This will be appreciated by all musicians in city or country. It will stand twenty years without tuning and is good for 100. No other piano has this improvement.

Great strength and durability is another advantage. In other pianos holes are bored in wooden boards and tuning pins inserted. The pins turn round in this board and cannot stand permanently in tune, and it often cracks, splits, dry s out, becoming utterly, totally and entirely worthless as a musical instrument. Our STEEL tuning device is in no way affected by such casualities, and the sounding board is so constructed that our pianos can never become thin or metallic in tone. They are always in tune and the expense of tunning is saved. This patent alone is worth millions and makes our piano the greatest in the world. Prices are no higher than other pianos. Buying direct from us, the largest manufacturers, you save $100 or $200—dealers' profits. Don't mind the ominous growlings of dealers and agents, who see their chances of selling a poor piano at a big profit of $200—slipping away—pity them.

We guarantee our pianos ten years. 200 styles. We have put our prices at lowest bed-rock for Cash.

A $600 Piano for $259.50; a $900 Piano for $297 50; a $1200 Piano for $375.50; a $1500 Piano for $475.50.

Upright Cabinet Grands, with stool and rubber cover shipped on board cars at S. F., to any part of the United States, Canada or Mexico. Our terms are cash with order. If not as represented money returned. We occasionally have good second-hand pianos, made over at $100 to $300, which we take in part payment for our own. Write or call for catalogue, free.

QUEER SALUTATIONS.

MANNERS OF GREETING OBSERVED BY DIFFERENT PEOPLES.

Connected with the welcoming of guests and the greeting of friends throughout the world are some of society's most singular customs. In scriptural days the usual form of salutation among the Hebrews was "Shalom lekha," or "Peace be with thee." The same expression is in vogue today among the Arabs, who in response to it say, "With thee be peace." The formal salutations of the orientals are quite profuse, being accompanied with various ceremonies, oftentimes they will embrace and kiss one another, and an inferior will bestow a kiss on the hand or beard of a superior. To such a degree was formality carried in the Bible lands that we are told that the prophet who sent his servant in great haste to lay his staff upon the dead child forbade him to salute anybody on the way lest he lose precious time. For a similar reason the Saviour bade the seventy to salute none while on a journey One of the prevailing modes of salutation among the Hebrews was the obeisance which brought the person making it to the ground, his beard literally touching the dust.

The Philippine Islanders rub their faces gently with the hand or the foot of the person whom they salute. If the foot is chosen the visitor is put to much personal discomfort, and travelers have found it difficult to maintain their equilibrium during the ceremony. It takes a practical acrobat to submit to the code of salutations in use among the people of the Straits of the Sound. We have it from Houtman that "they raised his left foot, which they passed gently over his right leg and thence over his face." This is a little more complex than our universal Yankee method of shaking hands, and not near so desirable.

IN THE FLOWERY KINGDOM.

Some Ethiopians rob their acquaintances of their robes, which they coolly tie about their own waists, thus leaving the saluted individual half naked in his presence. The Japanese, more polite, only take off a slipper, and the Arracans doff their sandals when they salute in the street, and their stockings when they meet in the house.

The Chinese possess a code of salutations which is zealously adhered to in nearly every part of the Flowery Kingdom. If two persons meet after a long separation they celebrate the event by falling on their faces to the earth several times in succession. A Chinaman is apt to indulge in what we would term 'putting it on." Ask one how he finds himself in health, and he is likely to answer, "Very well, thanks to your abundant felicity." Chinese etiquette prescribes the use of salutations and compliments with a minuteness that staggers one who wishes to become perfect in them. It tells where the stranger is to be seated, how many bows he is to receive, and when the welcome is to be given with the right hand, and when the left. The lower class of Chinese respect these punctilios, and ambassadors must practice them for forty days before they can present themselves at court.

It is to the wild nations, however, that we go for the curious in salutation. When two New Zealanders come together they go through an outlandish ceremony called tangi. They first cover themselves with mats that envelop the whole form, except one eye, squat on the ground facing each other and weep copiously. This is carried on for some little time, when they shorten the distance between them, and at last press their noses together, all the time giving utterance to expressive grunts. This last performance seems to satisfy New Zealand etiquette, for the parties then give themselves up to lively conversation.

Among the people of New Guinea the greeting ceremony consists of pinching. The person who bestows the welcome pinches the tip of the other's nose with the finger and thumb of the right hand while with the left he pinches the middle of his own stomach, muttering over and over the word "Magasuka." The reader will see from this that while Papuan etiquette is not intricate, the pinching part is not very desirable.

ROLLING IN THE SAND.

The Batoka people, who live along the banks of the famed Zumbesi, have an odd method of expressing their feelings in the way of welcoming people to their good graces. The women usually clap their hands and utter a strange sound, and the men stoop and strike their hips with their palms. But when the Batoka gentlemen wish to show off in the way of salutation they drop on their backs and roll over in the sand, slapping their thighs vigorously, and crying out, "Kina-bomba! Kina-bomba!" at the top of their lungs. Dr. Livingstone was diverted by the unwonted spectacle of a score or more of naked sable giants going through this singular ceremony, and tried to stop them, but the more the explorer protested the heartier grew his reception, and he had to wait patiently until they announced that he had been thoroughly welcomed to Batoka land.

The Nuehr tribe of the Nile country have a mode of salutation peculiarly their own. When Petherick, the traveler, came among these people he was accorded the reception given to persons of high degree. The Nuehr chief who entered the traveler's tent grasped the white man's hand and deliberately spat in it. After a moment of silence he repeated the process Petherick's first impulse was to resent the indignity by knocking the fellow down, but, restraining his indignation, he returned the compliment with considerable emphasis. This seemed to delight the chief, and the traveler was released to see his attendants subjected to the same barbarous welcome.

After all, the most expressive welcome is given when hand meets hand and eye responds to eye.—T. C. Baughn in Pittsburg Bulletin.

WORKING DOGS IN BELGIUM.

Forced to Do Much Labor and Then Almost Starved to Death.

Now it must not be thought that dogs in carts are only to be seen now and then in Belgium. Quite the reverse, for the dog seems, especially in Brussels, to be the chief beast of burden. Here I must state I think the loads put after the poor brutes are at times out of all reason too heavy. Brussels is in places deucedly hilly and steep, and to put 400, 500 or 600 pounds after a dog is too much of a good thing. Again, the dogs are not overfed. The Flemish farmers are as a rule very close livers. Most of them drink their coffee without milk, so as to be able to convert the latter, which, of course, they produce, into King Leopold's coin. Now these farmers live on next to nothing, so we can imagine that the dogs do not come in for much grub of any strengthening nature. I believe their food consists of buttermilk and potato parings all boiled up together, and often not. They feed their dogs like store pigs, and it is no wonder the poor animal's loins are thin and their rib bones are very prominent. Still they toil on, willing creatures to a degree.

It is a wonder to me how their legs stand the work so well. All are sound, or perhaps I had better write comparatively sound. Their bone is great for their bodies, and the feet seem to stand the strain well. These dogs really take the place of asses in Belgium, where few of the latter are seen. A good working dog fetches $35 or $40, and considering the amount of work he gets through he is not a dear dog at that sum. I saw several on sale in the Brussels market on Sunday morning last.

The working dog is generally of a sturdy build. If an American or Englishman were asked how the dogs were bred, his reply would be: "Probably between a mastiff and a smooth sheep dog;" and as there seems to be no distinct breed of these dogs, the foregoing might be generally accepted as a definition of the appearance of the breed. All bakers use dogs for their carts. There are, however, no shafts to these concerns, but the dog works underneath There is a crossbar placed just under the handles of the cart and by means of a bent axle tree the dog can work under the cart and between the wheels. It will be seen he is closer to his work than the dogs in the usual fashion to be seen in milk and vegetable carts. The attendant simply steers the cart with the handles, excepting where the hill is steep, and then le boulanger lends but little help to the panting dog.

Therefore, on the whole, I do not think the working dogs in Belgium are treated with the amount of kindness, good treatment and nourishing food they thoroughly deserve. I am not one of those who are of an opinion a dog should not work I believe they prefer ordinary labor to being chained up in a dirty, stinking yard, with but little but a pail of stale water before them. Let the Belgians feed their dogs better, put smaller loads after them and have water troughs placed at regular intervals about the streets, and there will not be much to grumble at; and I should think the St Hubert society—that is the kennel club of Belgium—could do a lot to manage things a little better on the side of the dogs.—Turf, Field and Farm.

Edward Irving's Vagaries.

A statement, made on the authority of the late Archdeacon Philpot, that on one occasion Edward Irving attempted by prayer to bring his dead child to life, has been stigmatized by the Irvingites as an attempt to cast a slur on the character of a great and good man. But the circumstantial evidence of Mr. J. Rate, in a letter to last week's Record, is conclusive. Some sixty years ago Mr. Rate was acquainted with two brothers of the name of Douglas, book sellers, and predecessors of the present firm of Burns & Oates. "Of the two brothers, the younger was a follower of Irving. He died of consumption, but was fully convinced almost till the very hour of his decease, that he should live to see the Lord's personal advent. After his death Mr. Irving and some of his prophets came to the house and attempted to raise him from the dead. This was told me at the time by the elder brother. He said to me that he felt deeply pained at the conduct of Mr. Irving and his friends; for they laid to his charge the failure of their attempt to raise his brother from the dead. The cause, they said, was his (the elder Douglas') want of faith."—St. James' Gazette.

By the Forelock.

In listening to observations of a certain sort, one finds it difficult to class the person making them. Does he indulge in the subtlest sort of humor or is he too liberal minded to notice the real drift of his remarks?

It was near the end of the winter term, and a teachers' meeting had been called to discuss the timely subject of written examinations.

"I propose having one examination in the forenoon, and one in the afternoon. every day," said the principal.

"That does very well in fair weather," answered one of the teachers, "but on a cloudy day I object to an examination in the afternoon."

"So do I," added another. "The children can't see to write without an effort, and they get tired and nervous."

"Very well, then," said the principal, "in case of a cloudy afternoon, have that examination the day before!"—Youth's Companion.

Luxury of Modern Travel.

The Pennsylvania railroad has a new dining car that cost them $65,000. "Them" is not good grammar. Why not? "Because it refers to Pennsylvania railroad, which is a singular noun." Sit down; there's nothing singular about the Pennsylvania railroad, but that "them" doesn't refer to the railroad anyhow; it refers to the passengers. Back to thy cell, escaped one; you didn't think a railroad company paid for its own equipment, did you? Here, put him in the insurable.—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

WEAK EYES INCREASING.

AN OPTICIAN IN A HISTORIC BUILDING SAYS THEY ARE.

The Causes to Be Found Largely in Our Modern Sedentary Life—Why School Children Are Afflicted—The Kind of Glasses to Wear.

On the west side of Nassau street, just south of Fulton street, is an old building, the second floor of which was formerly used by Aaron Burr as a law office after his return from Europe in 1813. The floor is now used by an oculist and optician, who is a scientist, philosopher and merchant combined.

His reception room was formerly Aaron Burr's consulting room, and it is somewhat of a coincidence that whereas it was formerly used for a consultation of the mind, it is now devoted to the purpose of consultations for the sight.

"It is not generally known," remarked the oculist-optician to a News reporter, "except to, perhaps, a few old fashioned merchants, that this was the office of the famous Aaron Burr; but to some of the older members of the bar this place has a historical interest as well as a personal one, so far as their eyes are concerned.

"I make no spectacles or eye glasses for the trade. Every pair of glasses made here are made after a personal examination of eye, by myself, or upon the written prescription of a recognized oculist. It seems to me that defective vision was never so great as now.

CAUSES OF DEFECTIVE VISION.

"The peculiarities of defective vision are legion, but the prevailing affection of the eyes is nearsightedness. This arises from many causes, chief among which is the increase among sedentary occupations. Jewelers, journalists, especially doctors, analysts, clerks, bookkeepers who have to work in dark warehouses, typewriters, especially women; milliners, painters upon enamel, and in fact almost every business that demands close attention for any length of time, has its proportion of nearsighted workers.

"Not one man in a hundred has absolutely perfect vision, and that one man is usually an illiterate person, whose business is an out door one. Yet even sea captains, particularly in the German navy, wear eye glasses.

"Another cause for defective vision is the present mode of living. We eat too fast and choose our food at random. The laborer and the farmer, whose frugal fare is plain but substantial, are seldom troubled with bad sights. Severe mental troubles most surely affect the eyes where there is already a predisposition to sight failure.

"During the past five years there has been a noticeable increase of impaired vision among school children, caused by three things: First, too much study in badly lighted school rooms; second, 'bolting' their food instead of masticating it; third, the undue strain upon the nerve tissues, which is the result of both. A good many children of tender years often require glasses as strong as those worn by persons of advanced age.

"Others are born with a malformation of the cornea, or front part of the eye, the curvature of which being unequal, the rays of light do not harmonize. Such people see vertical lines clearly, but the horizontal lines indistinctly, or vice versa. The only remedy for this sort of thing is to use cylindrical glasses.

"Again, others are troubled with weakness in one of the muscles of the eye, so that the eyes do not move alike. Hence they may have double visual impressions and see two objects instead of one.

"There is one peculiarity, however, about near sighted people which does not apply to other visual disorders. Their sight improves when they get to be about 40 or 42 years of age, and continues to improve for a few years afterward. This improvement, however, is only confined to persons who use glasses of the requisite strength. A too strong eye glass is worse than none at all, and while dealing with this part of the subject I may say right here that the general tendency of nearsighted people is at first to wear glasses that are too strong for them. Many a person's sight has been ruined in consequence.

A FEW SIMPLE RULES.

"The knowledge of a few plain, simple rules about eye glasses would save a world of trouble to the uninitiated. Always buy spectacles in preference to eye glasses. They are not only more comfortable, but their use avoids the often unnatural presence of common frames upon the muscles of the nose. Never wear rimless glasses, but use them with frames, the reason being that the sight of the eyes is not injured by the refraction of the rays of light on the edges. Use pebbles in preference to glass, because pebbles are ten degrees cooler. Never buy cheap glasses until your eyes have first been examined, because very much depends upon the condition of the body when a person comes in to buy.

"It requires from twenty minutes to three-quarters of an hour to enable the oculist to properly test a person's eyes in order to get the right kind of glass to suit him. Dozens of persons come to me overheated and laboring under some degree of excitement. Their eyes are naturally affected by this condition, and they need to 'cool off' and become composed before I can attend to them. The graduation in the number of the glass under these circumstances will vary from one-half to a whole number in the strength of the glass. Never buy of peddlers, because they have not the facilities to suit you.

"Affectation is one of the most prolific sources of defective vision. Young people want to wear glasses because they look stylish, when in reality there is nothing the matter with them. In such cases I simply tell them so, but when they insist, a piece of clear, common glass is the best, even though that is unadvisable."—New York News.

Peter Laing, who is 104 years of age, has recently been admitted to church membership in Elgin.

THE VINTAGE.

The storm of the past week has put a stop to wine-making in this valley, and little if any more grapes will be crushed this season. About two-thirds of the wine grapes had been picked and made into wine before the storm commenced. It is said that the rain will cause a loss of thousands of dollars to the grape growers of this valley who do not make up the product of their vineyards into wine. Those who have wine cellars will suffer the least, as the price of wine, owing to a decreased product, is bound to go up. The late storm has been one of the most disastrous to the vineyard interests of this State since the introduction of wine-making in California.

A few months ago the INDEX-TRIBUNE estimated the vintage for 1889 at 13,000,000 gallons as against 30,000,000 claimed at that time by the Viticultural Commission. This estimate of ours was based on information furnished by Capt. J. H. Drummond of this valley, than whom no man in this State is better qualified to form an opinion on matters viticultural. It was not made hap-hazard, as was that of the Commission, but was the result of a personal inspection of almost every wine-making district in the State.

Subsequently the Viticultural Commission was forced to admit that the yield would be about 18,000,000 gallons. The late storm, however, has changed the aspect of things and everything considered it is safe to estimate that the year's vintage will fall short of 9,000,000 gallons.

WE are pleased to note that the Healdsburg Enterprise and the Petaluma Courier agree with the INDEX-TRIBUNE that the building of a costly jail in Santa Rosa at this time is both unwise and unnecessary, and that the tax-payers outside of Santa Rosa township have some rights which the Supervisors are bound to respect. The Courier in its issue of last Thursday, in discussing this matter says:

"The Supervisors have caused considerable discussion by their recent action in deciding to build a new jail. There has been a costly blunder somewhere in the preparation of accommodations for prisoners in this county in recent years, and the people that pay the expenses of county government are not in a humor to bear the cost of these mistakes. The responsibility for these errors should be fixed. The men who are elected to serve the people and render poor service must expect to stand the brunt of the tax-payers' wrath unless they can give some satisfactory explanation of the present necessity for a new jail so soon after the completion of the one just finished."

"DON'T let that howling idiot across the street," roars a southwestern cotemporary, "dare to insinuate that we hold in other but the tenderest regard the sweet girls of the South. We have had several grandmothers, one dear mother, two stepmothers, eight sisters, twenty-eight sweethearts and three wives, all natives and to the manor born. Don't let that howling idiot accuse us of disloyalty."

THE Examiner comes to us this week in an improved form and looks more handsome than ever. Its Sunday edition of forty page was simply immense and eclipses anything ever before attempted in the history of Pacific Coast journalism. The paper is now printed on two presses which together can run off 2,400 papers a minute or 144,000 an hour.

THE El Verano Whistle is no more. It has tooted its last toot, and for the present at least will be known as the Vitigraph.

Over-Taxation and Extravagance.

Mr. EDITOR: I wish to say a few words upon a subject that certainly interests the oppressed farmers more than all others, because they are the sufferers from mismanagement of State and local affairs, of which I for one have to complain. We are coming to a state of affairs that are most truly deplorable, not only for this county but for the State as well. What will be the end or final result I cannot see, perhaps on account of my limited vision. On account of over-production of every thing the farmer has for sale, his products, in a great measure, are becoming valueless, and in many cases if sent to market are sold at a loss to the producer. This is not the only evil the farmer has to contend against, and which can be remedied if they, the farmers, can be united as a body to resist it. They have it in their power to do so. The astounding and alarming taxation of the present year if persisted in will lead to one inevitable result — the impoverishment not only of the farming community but of the whole population, for all are dependent upon the farming lands. This taxation evil is brought about by a class of men who have little if any interest directly in the welfare of the farming community. Therefore it is of the greatest importance that the farmer should be watchful and do all in his power to prevent men from being elected to important positions of trust that are in many cases filled by men who have no direct interest in the result of their unwise deliberations. It may be said that this is not true of some office holders, as many of these are farmers. But to a certain extent even these for the most part are not wholly dependent on their farms for a livelihood, and so are not to be depended upon when it comes to the real interests of the farmer.

Take for instance the Board of Supervisors of this county. If these gentlemen were really and truly interested in the welfare of the whole population of the county they never would have favored the building of a new County Jail at a cost of $40,000 at this time. I have been living in the county twenty-three years and I have never seen the time when the prospects of the farmer were as poor as at the present time.

Local Papers.

"One of the best mediums for benefitting a community is its local newspaper; its home luminary; a good, bright, lively newsy and well conducted newspaper should be appreciated; it should not only receive moral support, but real, tangible and substantial money in advance for a year's subscription support. If you hear or know of events or incidents happening in your locality send the items to the newspaper; if you produce something above the average, let the editor hear of it; if you learn of important improvements being made, let the news be published. I believe that nine men out of every ten and ninety-nine ladies out of every hundred do not object to seeing their names published in a paper in connection with any praiseworthy or legitimate enterprise. The news items in a local paper are not only read by the patrons of the sheet and the subscribers are scattered all over the land, but they are copied by the larger journals and read by thousands. Remember that the press of to-day is wielding more influence, more power, than ever before. It is the truth, the leader; it is the chronicler of the every day record or history of the whole world, and I think I can safely say, and say with pride, that the residents of our interior counties in proportion to population are as well posted on current events and are as liberal patrons and general readers of newspapers as any class of citizens in America. Therefore, in your efforts to advance the progress and prosperity of your county do not forget your local papers."

We Tell You Plainly

that Simmons Liver Regulator will rid you of Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, and Biliousness. It will break up chills and fever and prevent their return, and is a complete antidote for all malarial poison—yet entirely free from quinine or calomel. Try it, and you will be astonished at the good results of Simmons Liver Regulator.

IT is said that freight rates are to be reduced on California fruits by the Southern Pacific Company, and that an arrangement is now being made whereby the retailers in the East can order our fruits in lots to suit at the comparatively low freight rate of 1½ to 2 cents per pound.

Misleading.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE: Mr. Arpad Haraszthy contributes an article to the Examiner of last Sunday to which I would call attention. Like many articles concerning the vineyard industry, it is apparently fair, although very misleading. He gives the estimated number of acres of vineyards in the State at 150,000 and the estimated average yield at three tons per acre. Now, let us analyze these estimates: Allow 50,000 acres for raisin and table use and 25,000 acres not in bearing and we have 75,000 acres for wine at three tons per acre. This gives us 225,000 tons of wine grapes. As one ton will produce 150 gallons the State's product of wine would be 33,750,000 gallons. But in the same article he gives the production of wine this year at 15,000,000 gallons. There must be a grave error somewhere.

Such articles look as though written in the interest of large holders of land who wish to sell to parties in small farms at big prices. Many to their sorrow have been misled by just such statements. I hold:

First—That vineyards do not yield on a average three tons to the acre.

Second—That there is no such number of acres in vines.

Another thing I would like to call attention to is the prices of wine for the past ten years. The lowest average was in 1887 (45c), while the combine of dealers were only offering wine-makers from 10 cents to 15 cents. The consequence was that this year wine-makers were offering the producers from $7 to $10 per ton for grapes and on time at that. A PRODUCER.

Grape-Must Drinks.

The opinion has been expressed that unfermented grape juice will become in America one of the most important and healthful beverages; considering this, the following extracts from a discussion at the last Viticultural convention will be of interest.

The statement was made and corroborated that in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, grape must was eagerly purchased whenever placed on sale, and the supply had never been equal to the demand.

So far nearly all of the samples of marketed grape must that had been examined contained salicylic acid, or some equally deleterious chemical, which, though arresting fermentation, at the same time arrests digestion, and as far as possible samples have been examined of all the unfermented wines sold for communion purposes, and there was not one but contained some poisonous chemical, and the churches were turned against these vile impositions.

One way to get the pure article is by reducing the fresh juice to a syrup, which will keep without trouble, and water can be added to suit the taste when it is required. Another way is to boil the juice and bottle while hot; but perhaps the best plan when practicable, is to express the juice from thoroughly ripe selected grapes, and put in cold storage until it has thoroughly settled, rack off and put in bottles, pasteurize by heating to a temperature of 160 degrees, cork tightly, and you have a well-colored, pure, unfermented wine. The cold storage process takes away the muddy look of the must and gives it a better flavor.—Rural Press.

Complete and Permanent.

In the early part of last year I had a violent attack of rheumatism, from which I was confined to my bed for over three months, and at times unable to turn myself in bed, or even raise the cover. A nurse had to be in constant attendance day and night. I was so feeble that what little nourishment I took had to be given me with a spoon. I was in constant agony, and sleep was entirely out of the question except when I was under the influence of opiates.

After calling in the best local physicians, and trying all other medicines without receiving any benefit, I was induced by my friends to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.). I discontinued all other medicines, and took a course of S. S. S.—thirteen small bottles — which effected a complete and permanent cure.

An Eating Sore.

Mr. C. B. McLemore, a prominent and influential citizen of Henderson, Texas, writes under the date of August 23, 1889, as follows:

"For eighteen months I had an eating sore on my tongue. I had it treated by the best local physicians, but obtained no relief, the sore gradually growing worse. I concluded finally to try S. S. S., and was entirely cured after using a few bottles.

You have my cheerful permission to publish the above statement for the benefit of those similarly afflicted."

A Dig in the Ribs.

If on the right side and lower part of the diaphram, though playfully meant and delivered, is calculated to evoke profanity from a chappy whose liver is out of order. When that region is sore and congested, pokes seem fiendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin and eyeballs have a sallow tinge, you may infer also that his tongue is fuared, his breath apt to be sour, that he has pains not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right shoulder blade. Also, that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily presist in taking, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest antibilious and alerative medicine extant. Incomparable is it, also, for dyspepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, kidney troubles, and fever and ague.

[Little Vera, the pet of the household; the light and joy of her proud parents' hearts, the object of her fond sisters and brothers love has passed from earth. The fair face will smile no more. The sweet voice is hushed. The loved form is cold and still; the busy little hands are folded. But the winsome ways and the cunning words will linger long upon the memory of those who knew her and loved her. The pure innocent spirit free from the suffering clay was borne by an Angel band up to the Gates Ajar where it was greeted with songs of glad welcome. Weep not fond mother! Grieve not father! Mourn not loving sisters and brothers! Little Vera is in the happy home of the Angels where sickness, pain and death cannot come—where she will wait and watch for the coming of those left behind. Weep not! but let the hope of meeting your darling cheer your hearts. Little Vera was a sweet, loving child, too good and pure and wise for earth, and the Angels took her as we do the sweetest and fairest flowers from our gardens.]

NEW TO-DAY.

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

Death of Louis Heydt.

Louis Heydt, for the past twelve years a resident of this place where he has been engaged in the saddlery and harness business, died at his residence last Tuesday morning of brain fever superinduced by a complication of diseases. Deceased was a member in good standing of Pueblo Lodge, No. 168, A. O. U. W., of this place and his widow and children will receive $2,000, the amount which this order pays on the death of a member. Mr. Heydt was an honest and upright man in all his bnsiness dealings and numbered among his friends some of the best people of this valley. Deceased leaves a wife and three children, who with a large concourse of relatives and friends followed his remains last Thursday to their last resting place in the City Cemetery. Mr. Heydt was a native of Baden, Germany, and was aged 40 years. Deceased was a soldier in the German army and served with distinction under Gen. Werder in the Franco-Prussian war and was decorated twice for bravery in battle.

The Sheppard Bridge.

The approaches to the iron bridge which spans Sonoma creek on the Hearst place are being graded by Messrs. Knight, Miner, Lang and Latham, the petitioning property-owners who urged the building of the bridge. These gentlemen desire to return their thanks to the people of Glen Ellen for contributing money, teams and labor toward assisting them in building these approaches, which is quite a costly undertaking. This work ought to have been done at the expense of the county, which, although able to spend $55,000 in constructing an ornamental jail building in a fashionable quarter of Santa Rosa, begrudges this township a few hundreds for needed improvements out of the thousands squeezed out of its property-owners in the shape of taxes on real estate and improvements the value of which has been assessed at fancy figures.

Value of Careful Tree Planting.

E. P. Thomson of this valley planted last spring 400 olive trees, varying in size from four to twelve inches in height. These trees are now from 2½ to 5 feet in height and are healthy. Out of the 400 trees but two died. The trees were set out by Mr. Thomson personally. They were planted in holes three feet square and of the required depth. This shows the value of careful tree planting, and proves that it pays the orchardist in the long run to plant his trees carefully even though a little more expense is incurred and more time consumed.

Fine Wines.

J. E. Poppe has filled his cellar this season with some of the choicest and most popular varieties of wines ever made in this valley. His vintage of 1889 consists in part of Marsanne, Franken Riesling, Sauvignon Vert, Sultana, Pedro Himenes, Sauvignon, Kleinsberger, Riesling, Traminer, Gutedel, Semillion and St. Macair. It is needless to add that these wines when they become aged cannot be bought for 1 0 cents a gallon.

The Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury is still in session in Santa Rosa. It is composed of nineteen members, as follows: Anton Meyer, Seth A. Seavy, B. F. Campbell, T. N. Irwin, Martin Litchfield, Mark L. McDonald, W. B. Atterbury, Jr., James Allen Box, C. D. Yarborough, David Ayers, Samuel J. Agnew, Jacob Harris, F. B. Glynn, J. C. Baker, Robert A. Forsyth, S. B. Berry, E. A. Rogers, S. H. Torrece, M. McNamara.

More Money Out of the Tax-Payers Pocket.

The Republican of Santa Rosa says there is a scheme on foot to sell the Hall of Records to some parties who are promoting the project and erect a new building for the Recorder on the county's lots at the corner of Hinton avenue and Third street. The project may be indorsed by the Grand Jury.

That Artesian Well.

Wm. Read still continues to bore away at that artesian well at El Verano. He is down, lo these many feet, but the well still continues as dry as ever. It is like everything else in the dreary boom town—there is nothing in it.

OCTOBER WEATHER.

The Heaviest Rainfall Ever Known in this Valley.

The weather the past month has been most remarkable. Never since the settlement of this valley by the white man has there been such a precipitation of rain in the month of October, or any other month for that matter in a given time. On Thursday morning of last week at 9 o'clock it set in to rain and continued almost without cessation up to 1 P. M. last Tuesday. During that period the amount of rainfall, as recorded by Robert Hall, Resident U. S. Signal Officer, was 5.07 inches. Of this amount 2.84 inches fell between 9 P. M. Monday and 1 P. M. Tuesday, a period of sixteen hours. On Tuesday morning the downpour was simply tremendous, and in a surprisingly short time many of the streams in the valley were running bank full. So far the total rainfall for the month ending 1 P. M. Tuesday has been 7.62 inches.

New Grove Instituted.

The officers of the Grand Grove, United Ancient Order of Druids, visited Sonoma last Saturday and instituted Sonoma Grove, No. 75, with a membership of 29. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: E. Gilbert, P. A., A. Bulotti, N. A., F. Pezalia, V. A., P. Sonognini, Secretary; J. Fochetti, Treasurer; C. Filippini, C.; P. Bacala, I. G.; V. Bulotti, O. G. After the installation ceremony the Grand Officers were banqueted at the Toscano Hotel by the new Grove and an enjoyable time was had by all present. The new society will hold a meeting at Weyl's Hall at 7:30 this evening, when seven new members will be initiated.

This Gives You the True Business.

Put down in figures the year of your birth, add to it your age at your nearest birthday and the number three. Multiply the result by 1,000, from which substract 677,423. In the answer substitute letters for the figures, the different letters being numbered as they run in the alphabet, thus: A 1, B 2, C 3, etc. The result will give you what people generally consider you. It never fails if properly done.

Collapse of a Water Tank.

On Tuesday morning last about four o'clock a large water tank on the Spencer ranch fell with a loud crash and precipitated about 25 tons of water to the ground. The tank was elevated about forty feet from the ground alongside of the wine cellar. A portion of the water in its descent struck one corner of the cellar and crushed a large hole through the roof and side of the building. The accident was caused by the supports of the tank giving way.

A VITICULTURAL ROW.

The Wine-Producers Against The Wholesale Dealers.

War has been declared between the wine-growers and producers and the wine dealers. The growers complain that the dealers control all markets, and whether the wine is high or low, good or bad, the wine dealer is the only one that gets any advantage from it.

C. A. Wetmore expressed the opinion of the wine growers yesterday when he said:

"The Viticultural Commission has brought about an issue between the producers and the middlemen. The wine dealers have combined to cut down the price of vine products, and the vineyardists combined to offset their work. About four months ago the circulars of the middlemen and dealers were sent abroad, saying that the California cellars were flooded with wine. This was done to influence the market, and buyers were at once sent out to buy at 10 cents a gallon. They did influence a few growers, but the stock on hand in the cellars was not one-half what it was represented to be, and large dealers are now looking for extra quality of wines at a higher price than prevailed last year.

"The extremely low prices which have prevailed during the recent panic brought to this coast a number of buyers from New York, Chicago, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. They have traveled all over the State and bought freely.

The Eastern dealers have realized the fact that the cellars of California are not flooded, and they are swooping down on the higher class of wine, which the wine-growers alone have got. These wines are equal to the best French wine. There is no imported wine of any grade that can be bottled and labled less than $1.50 a gallon, and we are bottling and labeling a good class of wine at 80 cents a gallon, allowing sufficient margin for profits of the middleman."
—Examiner.

Wine and Vine Notes.

The storm still continues and wine making has ceased.

Henry Winkle is bottling some excellent Riesling, port and blackberry brandy.

Sixteen cents has been offered and refused for red Zinfandel, last years vintage, in the Napa Valley.

Sixty tons of Riesling grapes in the Craig vineyard, valued at $60 per ton, have been ruined by the late storm.

The late storm has ruined the Tokay grape crop of Sonoma and Napa counties, very little of which had been gathered.

Although the wine yield of Sonoma Valley will be less than half of what it was last year the quality will be superior to that made in former years.

It is said by experienced wine-makers in this valley that the Mission grape is the only wine grape that will escape injury from the late remarkable rain storm. Zinfandels and Rose of Peru of the wine grapes will suffer the most. Table grapes, particularly Tokays, it is feared are ruined.

Three dollars per ton were offered the other day by a Sonoma wine maker for Tokay grapes that had been rendered unmarketable for table use by the rain. The offer was refused and the probability is that instead of being distilled into brandy they will be left to rot on the vines. These grapes had been contracted for at $50 per ton to be delivered in good condition.

Glen Ellen Gossip.

Prior to this rain flocks of quail on our streets were daily occurences.

Tom Ryan, a limb of the law of San Francisco, spent a few days in Glen Ellen last week.

W. Gordenko, who resides north of town, has erected a neat dwelling house on his place.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Grothaus and Mr. Foley of Sonoma visited Glen Ellen one day last week. They say there is bottom on the road but a long way to it.

Mr. O. Wagner of Sonoma, who smoles a smile like a departing sunbeam, and a would-be benedict, passed through town last Sunday in company with a jovial party of the gentler sex.

OLD TIMER.

Glen Ellen, October 21st, 1889.

Mr. A. A. Vallejo, teacher of Spanish and music, has been quite successful in forming classes in this place. Hereafter he will teach in Union Hall every Friday evening. Young ladies who so desire will be taught to the residence of Mrs. Haraszthy.

A LOST CHILD.

Considerable excitement has prevailed in the neighborhood of Sebastopol since Sunday morning over the disappearance of little Anton, the two-year-old son of John Mono, a Portuguese farmer living a mile or so west of town, says the Santa Rosa Democrat. The little fellow was last seen by one of the parents going down the lane, which leads from the house to the county road. At first little attention was paid to the child's absence, but as the minutes lengthened into hours and the big drops of rain beat down upon the muddy surface of the pools and rivulets of their own formation, the father and mother became alarmed and instituted search. The neighborhood was soon aroused and a searching party of sixty or seventy scoured the woods and fields during the whole of the afternoon and way into the night. The search was fruitless. Not the slightest clue could be found, even the footprints in the soft soil which might have given some direction to the search having been obliterated by the fast falling rain. Early Monday morning the search was resumed, but up to six o'clock last night the child's absence was still a mystery.

By some the theory of kidnapping is entertained. Others believe the child has strayed off among the hills, and, losing its way, sought shelter in some secluded spot when the rain began to fall. Unless the child is found within the next few hours little hope can be entertained for its life. It is hardly probable that a child of that age could stand exposure in the hills for many hours during such weather.

No clue to the child has yet been obtained although it is a week since he disappeared. It is generally believed that the little fellow has been kidnapped.

Gratifying To All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the Cal. Fig Syrup Company.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottles free at E. Wegner's drug store.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1889.

The Art of Leaving.

Among the minor arts that add much to the happiness of life is that of leaving gracefully after you have paid a visit. It may seem a small thing, but it is really a large one. Who does not know the individual who rises to go and then stands talking for an hour? And the host and hostess feel that they must stand, even if they almost drop with fatigue, and when the visitor is finally gone they give a sigh of relief and sink into their chairs. Pay your visit, say what you have to say, and when you get up to go do not linger by the way. Do not stand and talk and keep your hostess standing. You have enjoyed your visit, and so, probably, has she; go, then, while the enjoyment lasts and do not linger until it departs and she wishes you would do the same. Some wise man has said that it is better to leave behind you a wish for your company than a satiety, or words to that effect.

Men understand this better than women, and here comes in the advantage of a business training again. They appreciate the value of time more than women do, and when they have finished a call they go without the tedious lingering and interchange of commonplaces.—Miss Palfrey.

He Wanted a Little Prose.

"The pleasure I derive from the scenery and the benefit I obtain from this exercise," soliloquized an Angler as he cast his flies, "is worth more to me than all the Trout in this brook. Trout I can buy in the market, but pleasure and health are not so easily obtained."

Just then a Trout seized one of his flies, and after some struggles it felt the net under it.

"I hope that you will restore me to the water," pleaded the Trout. "You are seeking for pleasure and health, and you admit that you can have them without sacrificing my life. Continue casting your flies for half an hour longer and in this way you will receive more than you will by killing me."

"Your arguments sound plausible enough," replied the Angler, as he placed the trout in his creel, "but the stook of pleasure and health I can obtain is unlimited. The supply of your species is, however, limited, and there is a time when a man prefers concrete prose to abstract poetry. That time will arrive when I find you on my plate at the breakfast table to-morrow."—New York Herald.

Hope.

The truth is that a man can better afford to sacrifice his dinner daily for a year than live without hope for a week. And nature has recognized that it is so. What phrase is more common in our mouths than the simple but significative "I hope?" Nor is there any human being, howsoever forlorn in material possessions or howsoever afflicted, who was not originally endowed with this capacity of hope. Go to the hospitals, where one might suppose it were easy to find despair in many aspects. The doctor will whisper to you that this or that invalid is doomed, and that he cannot, by all the evidence of human foresight and experience, live one day more. "Well, and how are you?" you say to the sick man, and perhaps you cannot help betraying in your tone the pity you feel for him, thus hovering between two worlds, about one of which alone, the one he is leaving, you are able to assure yourself that you know anything decisive. "Oh, much better," he replies, with strong hope in his voice and his eyes. "I think I shall soon be well."—All the Year Round.

An Anecdote of Bottesini.

One adventure of dead Bottesini's should be remembered. He was playing one night at Antwerp, and there was a full room, and considerable curiosity for his turn to begin. He took his place beside his colossal double bass, and commenced his variations. The public were electrified—and so was the player. No one who knows the double bass could say of the instrument that it was squeaky and shrieky. It has its faults, but at least shrillness is not one of them. The sounds came forth that evening piercing and pathetic. The player looked terrified; his instrument seemed bewitched, and the sounds continued even when the bow was not drawn across the strings. For a moment Bottesini faltered, and then plunging his hand into the internal cavities of his big instrument, he drew it back very hurriedly. He introduced it again very carefully and took out and held up to the room a cat. The entertainment did not end there. There were kittens to follow.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Grave in Maine.

In many parts of Maine are old graveyards with stones fast crumbling away, but none of greater general interest than one near Hull's Cove, Eden, where a small weather worn wooden cross marks the last resting place of Barthelemy de Gregoire and his wife Marie Therese. Marie Therese was the granddaughter of Antoine de le Motte Cadiliac, a brilliant French officer, who was at one time commandant of Mackinaw and Detroit, and governor of Louisiana. To him was granted by the French king, in 1688, the Island of Mount Desert and a large part of the mainland on Union river. His granddaughter claimed his estate in succession, in 1786, and the general court of Massachusetts granted to her and her heirs 60,000 acres. For a time the family lived at Hull's Cove. In 1732 they began to sell off the estate until, at the time of their death in 1810, not an acre remained.—Bar Harbor Record.

Green Is All the Go.

Greens, dark deep purple and browns and very dark blues are to be the favorite colors for fall wear. The purple—called heliotrope out of politeness—will be as aggressive as that worn by Italian women, with green trimmings. In fact, there will be fewer of the delicate and refined tints put forward this season in the new goods than have been seen for many years. Bright, almost primary colors are spread about for fashion's devotees to behold and admire.—Fashion Letter.

For Dry Goods, Clothing, Groceries, Hardware, Cutlery, and also everything kept in a general merchandising store go to S. Schocken's, north side Plaza, Sonoma. *

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my twenty years experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at E. Wegner's drug store.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These reedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. E. Wegner's Drug Store

MISCELLANEOUS.

"There was a frog who lived in a spring,
He caught such a cold he could not sing."

Poor, unfortunate Batrachian! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "genus homo" is utterly spoiled by "cold in the head," or on the lungs, or both combined. For the above mentioned "croaker" we are not aware that any remedy was ever devised; but we rejoice to know that all human singers may keep their heads clear and throats in tune by the timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by druggists.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh in the Head, no matter of how long standing, while for all laryngeal, bronchial, throat and lung affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively unequaled. It cures the worst lingering coughs and builds up the flesh and strength of those who have been reduced by wasting diseases. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all diseases for which it is recommended, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it refunded.

It is a matchless Work of Art. Over 1,200 magnificent, spirited engravings, designed and executed by the best artists and engravers on two Continents, embellish its pages and add excitement to wonder. In addition to this incomparable feature is supplemented many grand and beautiful full-page Colored Lithograph plates. The nine brilliant colors used in the pictures produce an almost dazzling effect, making them perfect gems of art, and executed at a cost of $5,000.

AGENTS WANTED

Everywhere to sell this most Remarkable Book. Old experienced agents grasp it at sight, for they realize there is big money in it. In reality it is a marvel of bookmaking art. If you want to make some money, here is a golden opportunity for you. An agency for this work is worth

From $5 to $25 per Day.

It is acknowledged by all publishers and agents to be the handsomest, fastest selling and cheapest book ever published. Send immediately for illustrated circulars and terms free, or the opportunity will be lost. To save time and to secure it instantly, send $1.00 for a complete canvassing outfit and name choice of territory. Extra liberal terms and exclusive territory guaranteed. Working agents are coining money and you can do the same.

Neither experience nor capital is required to engage in this enterprise, as the book will sell itself if properly presented, and we give our Agents 30 day's time in which to deliver and collect before paying us.

A $20 A Day Man!

A VOICE from Ohio. Here is a portrait of Mr. Garrison, of Salem, Ohio. He writes: "Was at work on a farm for $20 a month; I now have an agency for E. C. Allen & Co's albums and publications and often make $20 a day." (Signed) W. H. GARRISON.

William Kline, Harrisburg, Pa., writes: "I have never known anything to sell like your album. Yesterday I took orders enough to pay me over $25." W. J. Elmore, Bangor, Me., writes: "I take an order for your album at almost every house I visit. My profits often as much as $20 for a single day's work." Others are doing quite as well; we have not space to give extracts from their letters. Every one who takes hold of this grand business piles up grand profits. Shall we start YOU in this business, reader? Write to us and learn all about it for yourself. We are starting many; we will start you if you don't delay until another gets ahead of you in your part of the country. If you take hold you will be able to pick up gold fast. —Read— On account of a forced manufacturer's sale 125,000 ten dollar Photograph Albums are to be sold to the people for $2 each.
